¹ An Electronically Commutated Motor (ECM™) is a high-efficiency brushless DC motor commonly used to operate the blower fan in high-efficiency furnaces. ECM is the trade name for a particular line of motors developed by GE, but similar technology exists under other names. All furnaces that exceed the 92% AFUE efficiency rating and use brushless DC fan motors are eligible for the $400 incentive. Contact your equipment manufacturer if you are unable to determine if your unit employs a brushless DC motor.
